WAS A BRILLIANT FUNCTION

Whitney-Paget Nuptials Equalled the Marlborough Wedding.

St. Thomas' Church Was Crowded With the Society of Many Cities.

New York, Nov. 12.-Under a bright, clear sky and within the sacred portals of St. Thomas' Church, where less than a week ago Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt was made the Duchess of Maribarough, Miss Pauline Payne Whitney, daughter of William C. Whitney, former Secretary of the Navy, was, shortly after noon today, wedded to Almeric Hugh Paget; youngest son of the late Gen. Lord Abred Paget and grandson of the first Marquis of Anglesey.

As far as the ceremonials go, the wedding was no less brilliant than the Mariborough-Vanderbill bymeneal. It was, per-baps, more distinguished, though the bridegroom, again an Englishman, does not in On this occasion multibered among the wedding guests were President Cieveland and members of his Cabinet, who journeyed from Washington to do honor to the young couple. There were present, too, Gov. Morton and a score of diplomats. It was, indeed, a state occasion, as well as a great social function. Society and politics, for the moment, were happily mixed. The scene in the church was in some respects a repetition of last Wednesday. Society flocked to the wedding and again filled the spacious interior of the edifice. There were the same beautiful women, the same gathering of society notables and the same display of gorgeous costumes.

The streets surrounding the church were crowded all the morning by a throng, who eagerly watched the coming and going of the wedding party and guests. Soon after 10 o'clock the doors of St. Thomas' Church were thrown open, car-riage after carriage rolled up in front of the door and empired its load of richly dressed men and women, and it was not long before the church was crowded. As the guests caught a gliupse of the interior of the entires, there there is a the guests caught a gampse of the interior of the edifice, they invariably uttered exclamations of delight at the magnificent picture presented. The floral decorations were superb.

1 indeed, the church's interior had been transformed into fairyland, charming and eachaning to behold. From the great dome to the remotest corner flowers were very chemaning to be don't from the great dome-to the remotest corner, flowers were every-where, all tastefully arranged. There were massive garlands of foliage and flowers, lines of the valley, orchids of every fine, inaneous green palms and roses and chrys-anticemans by the hundreds, all gracefully featured. festooned.

Long before noon the church was crowded, and all anxiously awaited the coming of the bridal party. In the meantime the masi-cal programme, which was one of an excep-tionally high order, if not the fixest ever rendered in a church, had begun.

President Clevelind, Secretary Herbert and Secretary and Mrs. Lamont reached the church from the Netherlands Hotel at 11.40 o'chick and were escorted to a front sent by the nethers.

by the ushers.

After the peremony was concluded and the weighing march begon, Mr. Cleveland, escorting Mrs. Lamont, joined in the provession, taking a position immediately behind the ushers. After leaving the church the President and the two Cabinet officers and Mrs. Lamont were driven to the West. and Mrs. Lamont were driven to the Whit mey mansion, where they attended the re-ception and wedding breakfast.
George William Warren, organist of St.
Thomas' Church, presided at the organ.
The music was under the direction of Nathan Franko, and he had on hand Franko's orchestra and the Franko-Hegner quartet of stringed instruments.

The quartet first rendered a selection. Then Edouard de Reszke, the great basso of the Italian Opera Company, sang an aria from Mendelssohn's "Elija," to organ accompaniment. Frans Ondrieck, the violinist, who base just arrived from Europe to play his first American engagement, followed with "The Elegie," by Laub, to organ accompaniment.

Then came the great treat of the musical programme when Mine, Nordica and da chestra and the Franko-Hegner quartet programme when Mme. Nordica and de Reszke sang a duet, "The Crucifix," by Faure, also to organ accompaniment. Mmc. Nordica later earned much admiration by her superb rendition of the "Ava Maria," by Gounod, which was made even more effective with a violin obligate by Mr. Franke, and accompaniment by the organ and full string orchestra, with harp, Handel's "Largo" was played by Mr.

Franko, with all the strings, barpand organ, and the choir sang to organ accompaniment the bridal music from Weber's "Die Freis-chuetz." There were also organ selections by Mr. Warren.

Promptly at noon Almeric Paget, the groom, accompanied by Gerald Paget, his best man, came from the vestry to the foot of the chuncel steps, where they awaited the arrival of the bride. Almost immediately afterward, Bishop Potter, the officiating dergyman, attended by his assistant, Dr. John Wesley Brown, appeared in the chancel and made ready for the ceremony. A few minutes of impressive from Meyerbeer's "Prophet."

The bridal procession had begun. In the lead were the uspers, John C. Furman, G. Hoyt, H. Maltland Kersey, Wna Cutting, Jr., Winthrop Rutherford, Jared Howe, Crawford Livingston and Harry Payne Whitney.

Next came four cirls-Mss Dorothy Barney, Miss Katherine Barney, Miss Francis Ringham, and Miss Laura Whitney, all car-rying flowers.

Then followed the bridesmaids—Miss Ger-rinde Vanderbilt, Miss Emity Vanderbilt Sioan, Miss Beatrice Bend, Miss Azuba Barney, Miss Susan Dimock, and Miss Edith Blake Brown. The gowns of the bridesmaids, which were Miss Whitney's gifts, though uniform in design were not in color. They were rose, white, pale green, a delicate reliow, heliotrope and pale blue, all of moire. Last came the bride. She was walking with her father, leaning slightly upon his arm, She presented a charming picture Her wedding gown is a marvel of elegance and extreme simplicity. The full trained skirt of ivory white satin is perfectly plain, save for a cord which runs around Bishop Potter immediately began the marriage ceremony. At its conclusion the bride and groom, Mr. Whitney and the best man, went into the vestry, where the marriage registry was signed. While this was going on musical selections were rendered by the organ, orchestra and soloists.

After the usual formalities were attended to, the party returned to the chancel. The organist then played the Memlelssonn's Wedbing March, and to its enchanting strains, the bridal procession filed out of the edifice. The reception at the Whitney mansion was a magnificent function, and was at-tended by over 600 people. On returning from the church the bride and groom went immediately to the red room, a beautiful spacious apartment on the Fifth avenue side of the Whitney residence, where a formal reception was held.

The guests as they arrived were ushered into this room, and given an opportunity to extend their congratulations to the newly worlded construction.

At 1:30 p. m. the wedding breakfast was served, covers being laid for 500. The ball-room was used for the main dining room. The bridal table was horse shoe in room. The bridal table was horse shoe in shape, and the guest's table was oval

At the latter table sat President Cleveland with W. C. Whitney on his left and Mrs. Bishop Potter on his right. About seventy people were gathered about this table and Bishop Potter on his right. About seventy people were gathered about this table and included the most prominent of the guests. Scattered about the various rooms on the first floor were small round tables, which were used by the other guests.

At the conclusion of the breakfast President Cleveland in a neat little speech proposed the health of the bride and groom. This was dead with with

Then the groom was called upon for a few remarks. He thanked the President for his kind words, and said his heart was with this country. "I am an Englishman," he said, "but Black

The Prices of Butterine deserve to be as high as the prices of butter, for the reason that our Butterine is universally acknowledged to be better than butter. Well, we are not satisfied to have the Butterine alone better than butter. We must have the prices better. We are bound to have these matters as fixed that nobody can dud the slightest passible scause for buying butter. Every reason to be thought of—purity, flavor, borguet, exture, health, awsetness, price, freedom from rancidity, speaks for
